

Caldwell University Music Department Mission Statement

The Caldwell University Music Department has been an important part of the mission of the University since its founding in 1939. As representatives of a discipline which promotes the spiritual, aesthetic and intellectual growth of its students in a uniquely participatory way, the Music Department seeks to play a significant role in the University through its core curriculum courses, and the offering of the major and minor in Music. The department provides opportunities for all Caldwell students and community members to join ensembles, organizes numerous student performances for the ceremonial, liturgical and concert life of the University, and sponsors a professional concert series featuring a variety of musical styles.

Music majors will develop skills to serve them as performing artists and teachers, including preparation in music theory, history and keyboard proficiency, experience with current music technology, as well as facility on their major instrument. These skills will be evaluated through course examinations juries, performances and a senior project.
